The image shows the title page of a historical map. At the top center is a coat of arms featuring a crown above a shield with a cross and four lions. Below the coat of arms is a large, ornate cartouche with a scalloped border. Inside the cartouche, the title is written in a mix of serif and script fonts: 'A PLAT' in large serif letters, followed by 'Discovering the Coasts of' in script, then 'Russia Lapland Finmark' in serif, 'Nova - Zembla' in serif, 'and' in script, and 'GREENLAND' in large serif letters. Below the cartouche, the text 'Newly Corrected By Joseph Moxon' is written in a script font, followed by 'Hydrographer to the Kings most Excellent Majesty.' in a smaller script font. The background of the page is a faint map of the Arctic region, showing the coastlines of Russia, Lapland, Finmark, Nova Zembla, and Greenland. A compass rose is visible in the upper right corner of the map. The entire page is framed by a decorative border.
